Taste Information

Master Origins Indonesia has a thick and velvety body, cured tobacco notes and a hint of tropical woody aromas. ■ Try Master Origins Indonesia wet-hulled Arabica with a dash of milk - nutty, woody and roasted notes emerge in this intense Master Origins coffee with milk.

The Story

Sumatran farmers wet-hull their coffee because of the humid climate. They remove the parchment when the coffee is soft and moist because exposed beans dry faster. The method is unique to them and produces the classic Indonesian taste - velvety thick, wildly aromatic, notes of cured tobacco.

This coffee is exclusively created with Fairtrade beans from Indonesia.

We split roast this single origin coffee, with a medium and slightly short average roast. Split roasting this Sumatra coffee brings great aromatic complexity to the cup.
